"We are betting big on India!"

Dear friends,

By convention, we are expected to state our numerical growth at the outset.

I decided to explain where our optimism is coming from instead.

There is one word for it, India.

A country. A market. A theme.

That we expect will continue to drive our numbers across the foreseeable future.

VISION

- We ensure product quality, safety, reliability and excellence.
- We manufacture medicines for patients, not for profit; profit follows

Betting on India

Why then are we betting bigger on India when we have grown many fold in the last 10 years? Why are we betting bigger on India when the country is already the world's 3rd largest economy (based on purchasing power parity)?

For important reasons.

Indians are increasing: In the decade ending 2011, India added about 18.14 crore people. The addition of 1.8 crore population every year will end up India being the most populated country in the world. According to the United Nations, India is set to replace China as the most populated country by 2022.

Indians are earning more: The per capita net national income in 2015-16 grew by 7.3% to Rs 93,231 from Rs 86,879 in 2014-15. This trend is expected to continue as India's GDP growth is estimated to grow by more than 7% over the medium term.

Low per capita spend: India's spend on drugs is amongst the lowest compared to top 15 pharma markets. The per capita spend has been around US$60-64 pa (between 2010 and 2014) as per World Bank. As the per capita income continues to grow led by good economic growth, disposable incomes are likely to go up and the per capita spend on drugs is set to increase.

Increasing insurance coverage: In India, unlike US/EU, the spending of drugs is largely out of pocket, which accounts for around 90% of payments. In the Planning Commission's draft Twelve Five-Year Plan, the vision laid out for India's healthcare sector is universal health coverage. This would be achieved primarily through extensive insurance coverage, rising from 10% currently to 90%, partly through government hospitals or government payments.

Higher penetration: Around 2/3rd of India's population lives in rural areas, but rural markets contribute <20% of Indian Pharmaceutical sales. Moreover, the split of hospitals and doctors between rural and urban is skewed towards urban areas. With government's intention of universal health coverage, there is an immense opportunity for expansion of the Indian Pharmaceutical market.

Our strategy

Having painstakingly created a basket of 25 niche products, we are focused on monetising these assets through knowledge-based awareness among medical specialists and opinion makers. This we believe would lead to sustained prescription by medical experts.

In addition, we introduced the Passion Premier League (PPL), wherein 12 teams are created to promote a select set of product with targets to be achieved by the end of the year. This initiative fosters creativity in developing innovative marketing strategies to achieve the set target – nurturing healthy competition in the marketing unit. And we will continue to introduce such other initiatives that provide for individual development and organisational growth.

Message to shareholders

Having set a robust foundation comprising world-class infrastructure, cutting-edge technology, niche products and an energetic team, we are all set to make our second coming more productive and profitability. And enhance shareholder value.

Pawan Chaudhry
Chairman and Managing Director

Our business model

Research focus

Focus energies on developing 'remedy-defining' formulations in areas that demand in-depth knowledge of product chemistry and marked by low competition.

Segment focus

Maintain a strong present in niche high-growth therapeutic segments with the objective of emerging among the top-three global players in each.

Platform focus

Concentrate on the highly complex, high-investment injectable dosage forms, a segment addressed by only a handful of pharmaceutical players.

Reach out focus

Adopt a two-pronged strategy – direct marketing and partnering large pharmaceutical companies (case-to-case basis), with the objective to reduce the time and investment needed in creating a large distribution network.

Geographic focus

Establish a strong research-led presence in regulated markets for volume-driven and value-led growth.

VISION

- We work with passion, commitment and enthusiasm.
- We believe in hard work, productivity and continuous improvement.

Management discussion and analysis

Global economic review

In 2015, global economy activity remained subdued leading to 3.1% growth, marginally lower than in 2014. Preliminary data suggests that global growth during the second half of 2015 at 2.8% was weaker than forecasts on account of softer activity in United States, Japan and advanced Asian economies. Three key transitions influence the global outlook: gradual slowdown in China, freefalling crude prices and a gradual tightening in US monetary policy.

The World Economic Outlook forecasts global growth at 3.2% in 2016 and 3.5% in 2017, lower than its earlier estimates in January 2016. It has warned that if recovery remains slow it could have damaging effects on the social and political fabric of many countries. Growth in advanced economies is projected to remain modest at about 2%, the recovery hampered by weak demand, partly held down by unresolved crisis legacies, unfavorable demographics and low productivity. While emerging markets and developing economies will account for the largest share of world growth in 2016, prospects across countries remain uneven and generally weaker than over the past two decades. India remains a bright spot with strong growth and rising incomes.

	2014	2015	2016P	2017 P
Year-on-year growth
Advanced economies (%)	1.8	1.9	1.9	2.0

Indian economic overview

When the new government took the reins two years ago, Indian economy was showing tentative signs of stability. While a possible external sector crisis, triggered by the 'taper tantrum' was averted through steps taken by RBI, the economy needed series of structural changes to restore macroeconomic balance and enhance the long term growth potential.

Two years hence, amid a dim global backdrop, Indian economy has emerged as a 'relative' outperformer offering global investors a healthy mix of growth along with macroeconomic and political stability.

Fiscal 2015-16: Powered by a sharp rise in manufacturing and gains from benign crude oil prices, the Indian economy is expected to grow 7.6% in 2015-16 against 7.2% in 2014-15, despite the global turbulence and volatility. Manufacturing growth for 2015-16 is likely to be at 9.5%, much higher than the 5.5% growth in 2014-15.

Inflation measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI), which was likely to average 6.5% in 2014-15 could decline to 5.0-5.5% in 2015-16, clearing the path for further monetary policy easing.

Assuming a further moderation in average annual price of crude petroleum and other commodities, the current account deficit is estimated at about 1.3% of GDP for 2014-15 and less than 1% of GDP in 2015-16.

Outlook: Given the macro economic scenario and assuming normal 2016 monsoons, it would not be unreasonable to believe that the Indian economy is set to register growth in excess of 7% for the third year in succession. Against an unsupportive global economic landscape and weak back-to-back monsoons, a 7.6% GDP growth in 2015-16 (as estimated by the Central Statistics Organisation) appears encouraging.

The global pharmaceutical industry

The unprecedented expansion of access to healthcare globally over the past ten years – ranging from hundreds of millions of people in low- and middle-income countries getting access via government programs and/or rising incomes to the reduction in the uninsured population in the United States is expected to result in a significant increase in the volume of medicines consumed globally.

Medicine use in 2020

The volume of medicines used globally is expected to reach 4.5 trillion doses by 2020 (up 24% from 2015). The largest pharmaceutical-using countries will be the pharmerging markets, with two-thirds of the global medicine volumes comprising of generic medicines. This dramatic increase in the utilisation of medicines will be due to broad-based health system expansions. Developed markets will continue to account for the majority of medicine spending due to higher prices per unit and the mix of newer medicines that bring meaningful clinical benefit to patients facing a wide range of diseases. The use of medicines in 2020 will include 943 New Active Substances introduced in the prior 25 years with new medicines weighed towards specialty and biologics.

Expected trends 2016-2020

- Surge of innovation emerging from the research and development pipeline, as well as a range of technology-enabled transformations that will expand the evidence-basis for interventions and bring measurable improvements to health outcomes by 2020
- Small molecule patent expiries will have a larger impact in the period 2016-2020 than in the prior five years (2011-2015)
- Cancer treatments represent the largest category of the 225 new medicines expected to be introduced within the next five years. Over 90% of expected new cancer treatments will be targeted therapies – those that use a cancer cell process, mechanism or genetic marker to select or deliver treatment – of which one-third will use a biomarker. An estimated one-third of cancer treatments will target rare cancers deemed orphan diseases

Over 50% of the world's population will consume more than 1 dose per person per day of medicines, up from one third of the world in 2005, driven by countries with large populations such as India, China, Brazil and Indonesia.

Medicine Spends Trends in 2020

VISION

- We encourage and respect individual initiative, ability and creativity to develop people as the source of our strength.
- We practice honesty, integrity and ethics in all aspects of our business and strive to be the best corporate citizen.

Indian pharmaceutical sector

The pharmaceutical market for India constitutes domestic (IPM - Indian pharamarket) and exports markets. The IPM witnessed a healthy double digit growth over 2000-2015 driven by improving affordability, better health awareness, higher penetration of healthcare facilities and worsening lifestyles.

The IPM is significantly fragmented with the top-10 players accounting for a ~40% share of the market and top-25 companies accounting for a ~70% share of the market. The IPM comprises of over 5,000 pharma companies, 22,000 stockists/distributors and over 600,000 retailers.

The IPM is largely a branded generic market wherein drugs are sold by brand names. Acute therapy drugs account for a ~70% share of this segment. Acute drugs are those medications which are prescribed by doctors for only three to six weeks. Large global markets comparatively are more chronic in nature with ~60% contribution.

The IPM has over the years largely been driven by a growth in volumes (60%+ contribution) whereas new launches have contributed the balance (~30%). The price sensitiveness of IPM as well as high competition has restricted instances of price increases.

Budget 2016 for Pharma sector

Key announcement	Impact
Reduce weighted R&D deduction to 150% from April 2017 and 100% from April 2020	Negative for all pharma companies
10% tax rate for global income accrued from patent developed and filed in India	To benefit players who can commercialise patents on global basis
Customs duty on import of Molybdenum-99 has been removed	Positive for radio pharma players
An amount of Rs. 850 crore allocated over next few years for several animal wellness programs	Positive for animal health players
Health cover of Rs. 1 lakh for BPL families with additional Rs. 30,000 cover for senior citizens	Positive for healthcare providers

Source: World Economic Outlook, April 2016

Around two-thirds of India's population lives in rural areas but contribute < 20% to IPM sales. Moreover, the split of hospitals and doctors between rural and urban is skewed in favour of the latter. With the Central Government's intention to offer universal health coverage, there is an immense opportunity for the IPM segment to expand.

VISION

- We acknowledge our responsibilities towards our customers, employees, society at large and last, but not the least, our shareholders.
- We shall build Venus as a nation.

initiative, which is likely to provide the necessary impetus to the sector in order to achieve its true potential.

The life style segments such as cardiovascular, anti-diabetes, anti-depressants and anti-cancers will continue to be lucrative and fast growing owing to increased urbanisation and change in lifestyle patterns. Going forward, better growth in domestic sales will depend on the ability of companies to align their product portfolio towards these chronic therapies as these diseases are on the rise.

As per Pharmexcil (Pharmaceuticals Export Promotion Council of India), both the domestic as well exports are expected to grow at >16% CAGR over 2013-20.

Over the long term, the prospects appear promising. According to the PwC – CII report, the Indian pharma industry is on a good growth path and is likely to be in the top 10 global markets in value term by 2020.
