Mrs. Shobha Kapoor, Managing Director, Balaji Telefilms Limited said,

“BTL has continued to demonstrate operational resilience during this quarter. While softness in the TV business impacted overall profitability, our content pipeline remains strong across multiple formats.

We recently launched a premium astrology app – AstroVani – aimed to deliver the wisdom of Indian tradition and culture at the fingertips of the masses. This move is in line with our strategy to diversify our digital offerings through scalable products. We also recently launched Balaji Studio – a fresh concept platform meant to facilitate collaborative development of next-gen content and stories.

Our strategic partnerships, such as that with Netflix, would ensure a stable growth trajectory for the longer run, while our de-risked model in Films ensures better cost recovery. On the films front, we are looking forward to the much-anticipated release of Vrusshabha in December.

Overall, we are cautiously optimistic about the rest of the fiscal year, and focused on generating sustainable value for all stakeholders.”
