MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Your Directors have pleasure in presenting the management discussion and analysis report for the year ended on March 31, 2025.

GLOBAL ECONOMY

The global economy experienced moderate growth of 3.3% in 2024, signalling a period of relative stability coupled with ongoing constraints to expansion. In FY25, policy adjustments have become necessary as geopolitical tensions and economic pressures intensify. The introduction of new tariff measures by the United States prompted immediate and decisive responses from many countries, culminating in the establishment of near universal tariffs from April 2025 and resulting in tariffs reaching levels not previously witnessed. These actions have imposed considerable pressure on global GDP, with the broader economic impact remaining uncertain. This overhang is likely to persist in the global growth outlook. Such developments have significantly heightened economic uncertainty whilst rendering the short-term outlook highly volatile. The reliability of traditional forecasting models have diminished, as it has become increasingly challenging to base estimates on historical assumptions. Within this environment, global headline inflation is projected to moderate at a slower pace than earlier anticipated, with expectations of a decline to 4.3% in 2025 and further easing to 3.6% in 2026. This revision reflects upward adjustments in inflation projections for advanced economies, partially balanced by smaller downward revisions in emerging markets and developing nations. Although uncertainties remain, many economies have shown remarkable adaptability, confirming that recovery can be achieved through proactive reforms, robust institutions and coordinated policy initiatives. Achieving a more balanced and sustainable global recovery will require a shared commitment to transparent trade practices, timely debt resolution and addressing key structural imbalances. Stronger international collaboration and collective resolve remain pivotal in enabling the global economy to regain momentum and pursue sustained, inclusive growth.

GLOBAL CHEMICAL INDUSTRY:

The global chemical industry entered a recovery phase in FY24 and FY25 following a pronounced downturn in 2023. In that year, sector revenues declined by 8% year-on-year amid widespread destocking and muted end-market demand, leading to the lowest operating margins observed since the 2008–09 recession (Deloitte). Industry-wide cost optimisation initiatives contributed to margin improvements by the first half of 2024, enabling a return to growth. According to the American Chemistry Council, global chemical production rose by 3.4% in 2024 and is forecast to grow by 3.5% in 2025 (Deloitte). In value terms, the global chemicals market is expected to reach approximately USD 6.324 trillion in 2025, up from USD 6.182 trillion in 2024, reflecting a 2.3% annual increase (MarketsandMarkets).

Sector growth has been propelled by stabilising energy and feedstock prices and a resurgence in demand from key sectors such as automotive and electronics. The operating landscape in FY25 is shaped by efforts towards innovation, sustainability and digitalisation, with significant investments in decarbonisation technologies, efficiency enhancements and advanced digital tools. Notably, there is a greater strategic focus on specialty chemicals and customised solutions, given their higher margins relative to commodity products. However, the outlook remains mixed due to macroeconomic uncertainties, evolving trade policies and ongoing supply chain reconfigurations. The Asia Pacific region, driven by China and India, continues to anchor growth, while Europe's recovery remains subdued. Persistent overcapacity, particularly in petrochemicals, alongside soft demand in several value chains, constrains pricing and margin recovery. Fitch Ratings has assigned a "neutral" sector outlook for 2025, citing these dynamics (Indian Chemical News). In this environment, companies are prioritising cost efficiency, supply chain resilience and innovation in sustainable products to maintain their competitive edge and long-term growth trajectory.

INDIAN ECONOMY:

India remained the world's fastest-growing major economy in FY25 with GDP increasing by 6.5%. Despite experiencing global headwinds such as trade disruptions, geopolitical developments and volatility in financial markets, the Indian economy demonstrated remarkable resilience. This was underpinned by robust macroeconomic fundamentals, policy continuity and a sound monetary system. Growth was primarily driven by substantial public sector investments and largescale infrastructure development, effectively offsetting muted private consumption. The government's emphasis on capital expenditure across transportation, energy and digital infrastructure provided continued momentum even as household spending faced intermittent pressures from elevated inflation. Policy efforts consistently promoted a transparent and rules-based environment, fostering both investment and innovation. Structural reforms targeting manufacturing, improved domestic supply chains, rapid digital adoption and sustainability remained at the forefront. The nation's medium- and long-term policy direction is guided by the vision of achieving Viksit Bharat (Developed India) by 2047. Looking ahead, the RBI has projected GDP growth at 6.5% for FY26, with inflation anticipated to remain within its 4% target bandwidth, supported by stable commodity prices and steady demand. While macroeconomic and financial indicators are robust, risks such as global uncertainties and evolving geopolitical dynamics could influence market sentiment and trade. Nevertheless, India's ongoing reforms and resilient economic foundations establish a strong platform for sustained growth and development.

INDIAN CHEMICAL INDUSTRY

India's chemical industry stands as a vital pillar in the country's manufacturing sector, contributing approximately 7% to the national gross domestic product. The industry supplies essential raw materials to key sectors such as agriculture, pharmaceuticals, textiles, automotive and construction, underscoring its strategic importance in the domestic industrial ecosystem. India has firmly positioned itself as the sixth-largest producer of chemicals in the world, and the third-largest in Asia. The domestic chemical market was valued at approximately USD 220 billion in 2023. This robust growth trajectory is expected to continue, with market size projected to reach between USD 400 and 450 billion by 2030 and further rising to USD 850 to 1,000 billion by 2040, subject to supportive policy frameworks and infrastructure advancements. Despite an encouraging outlook, India's global presence remains relatively modest, with a share in global chemicals consumption of just 3 to 3.5% as of 2023. The sector has benefitted from industry-wide policy reforms, including the implementation of Goods and Services Tax, greater liberalisation of foreign direct investment and strategic programmes such as Make in India and Aatmanirbhar Bharat. The extension of Production-Linked Incentive schemes to targeted sub-segments has further fostered manufacturing capabilities. However, critical challenges have constrained growth. Notably, the high reliance on imports for petrochemical intermediates and speciality chemicals has resulted in a significant trade deficit. Limited integration with domestic feedstock sources, combined with a predominant focus on commodity chemicals, has impeded advancement up the value chain. Infrastructure limitations, such as inadequate feedstock supply, insufficient shared industrial facilities and logistics inefficiencies, continue to elevate operational costs. Looking ahead, India's chemical industry is poised for substantial expansion. The domestic market exhibits strength, supported by increasing population, higher disposable incomes and accelerated urbanisation. Demand from end-use sectors including consumer goods, automotive, healthcare and agri-inputs continues to offer significant opportunities for growth. Favorable government policy, investment in integrated petrochemical clusters, and improvements in logistics and port infrastructure are expected to address structural constraints progressively. Enhanced focus on energy security and domestic feedstock availability will aid in reducing import dependence. Furthermore, the promotion of green chemistry practices and adoption of circular economy principles are set to underpin sustainable and long-term industry competitiveness.

An asset is current when it is:

- Expected to be realized or intended to be sold or consumed in the normal operating cycle;
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading;

Differences arising on settlement of such transaction and on translation of monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies at year end exchange rate are recognized in profit or loss.

2.8. Impairment of assets

Consideration is given at each Balance Sheet date to determine whether there is any indication of impairment of the carrying amounts of the Company's assets. If any indication exists, an asset's recoverable amount is estimated. An impairment loss is recognized wherever the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount.

2.9. Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are stated at historical cost, net of accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. When significant parts of Property, plant and equipment are required to be replaced at intervals, the Company recognizes such parts as individual assets with specific useful lives and depreciates them accordingly. Likewise, when a major inspection is performed, its cost is recognized in the carrying amount of the plant and equipment as a replacement if the recognition criteria are satisfied. All other repair and maintenance costs are recognized in profit or loss as incurred.

Borrowing cost relating to acquisition / construction of fixed assets which take substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use are also included to the extent they relate to the period till such assets are ready to be put to use. ### Other Intangible Assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are measured on initial recognition at historical cost. Intangibles assets have a finite life and are subsequently carried at cost less any accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses if any.

Intangible assets with finite lives are amortized over the useful life and assessed for impairment whenever there is an indication that the intangible asset may be impaired. The amortization period and the amortization method for an intangible asset with a finite useful life are reviewed at least at the end of each reporting period. Changes in the expected useful life or the expected pattern of consumption of future economic benefits embodied in the asset are considered to modify the amortization period or method, as appropriate, and are treated as changes in accounting Estimates. The amortization expense on intangible assets with finite lives is recognized in the statement of profit and loss unless such expenditure forms part of carrying value of another asset.

Gains or losses arising from derecognition of an intangible asset are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognized in the statement of profit or loss when the asset is derecognized.

Derecognition

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognized upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal.
